FREEDOM

Freedom Means Earning Respect

by John Wright

Freedom in school is something which we have to work for. If students earn the respect of teachers and administration, they can be granted freedom in many ways. Whether it is being able to go somewhere without a pass, or staying after to work out with weights. If a student earns the respect of the staff there is much freedom in store for that student.

The Barbizon Look Alikes by Bill Doyle

Just as in any school in America, Mt. Everett has its own fashion tastes. There are people who dress like the Barbizon School and others who dress like the Barbizon School janitors. You can tell a lot about a person from his clothes. All the college prep students dress in cords, unpatched jeans or dickies and usually wear an izod or a fox shirt, although others are worn. The other students, those who are not college prep, usually wear plaid flannel shirts over a t-shirt and a vest over the shirt, jeans from WWI and big ugly boots.

Abnormality by Jim Makuc

There is this person who sits in front of me in English. She always wears, shall we say, not "normal" clothes. It always seems that she stands out in a crowd. Her designer jeans, her skirts, and her shoes always attract attention. She can come to school fresh out of the '50's, as a normal person, (rarely), or as one from I don't know where! The clothes fit the personality, though, and that makes all the difference.

School Can Be Fun

by Kelly Eichstedt

The fun part of school is being able to see a lot of people laughing and having a good time. Behavioral Science is fun on the days we do experiments, because the person who is doing the test usually makes the whole crowd laugh. We have fun out in the Annex during our Advanced Office Skills class, because there are only six people in the class and everyone can just be herself.

Fun Is Where It's At by Sally Soudant

There is a great deal of fun in school. Whether you are talking with friends at your locker, joking around in class, or listening to music at lunch, you can have fun. There are many chances to have fun. Study hall is a good place to have fun. You can calmly sit and talk to friends. Mt. Everett also has a great deal of fun at assemblies, and the many other activities that it provides.

Vigorous, eager to learn, playful . . .

A Noisy Group? by Mark Drabik

I walked down the hall, my mind deep into the serious problems that often trouble a Senior. Suddenly I was struck by an immense volume of sound. Who were the perpetraters of this unyielding noise? I realized that the noise came from a group of seventh graders. How could such little people make so much noise? It seemed as if no one talked but only yelled — even to a neighbor; I guess it is a part of youth and growing up.

Energetic, searching, anxious for high school . . .

The Transition . . . by Mike Salzmann

The Eighth Grade is a very lost group. Although they are no longer a part of the younger group, they are not yet a part of the upperclassmen group. It is a period of transition and anxious waiting for this generation. People in the grades above them often look down upon their "immaturity"; however, we must have hope for the Eighth Grade because they are in a state of transition that will produce tomorrow's upperclassmen.

FRESHMEN

Small, effervescent, and loud . . .

The Troublesome Year! by Jim Gauthier

The freshman year is a real troublesome year. Freshmen are trying to fit in with the rest of the high school. They all seem to want to make friends with the older kids.

I think the freshman year is very difficult because there are so many decisions to make, from choosing your friends to deciding what you want to do with your life. Younger students usually think that high school takes forever, but it certainly goes by quickly.

A little bigger, bubbly, great friends . . .

In the Middle by Melissa Proctor

When you're a freshman, you're the lowest and it's your first year in high school. When you're a junior, you're almost there. And when you're a senior, you're there! But sophomores are stuck. They're in the middle. I feel sorry for them, but they enjoy one bright prospect: next year.

Fun-loving, maturing, seniors-to-be . . .

Original Thoughts by Judy Wells

The juniors are doing a super job this year raising money for the prom. They seem to have come up with ways of raising money the other classes have never thought of. Their class is very together on almost everything. I think they have one of the best classes in the school.

SENIORS AT LAST

Be It Prosperous by Jim Perry

This is the year! The year of the end. The end of school. The end of the first stage leading to our next stage. Life must go on. Be it prosperous! Everyone will go their own ways. Remember that with the Senior Class behind you, and you behind them, we all made it.

ADMINISTRATION

The Best It Possibly Can Be by Laurie Wuori

Our administration should be praised for all the trouble they go through. They work very hard to keep our school the best it possibly can be. There is really no doubt that they care what happens to the students and want them to succeed.

FACULTY
Counts Five Times by Debbie Stevens

Faculty. What a scarey word. They always have something for you to do — just another problem. Homework, homework, homework. Sometimes they are bearers of terrible messages: "You've just flunked a test that counts five times."

Where Credit Is Due

by Tammy Jervas

The personnel, what they must go through to keep this school in order. They handle the announcements, absentees, report cards, health, maintenance, food preparation, and organization of school activities. They sure do a heck of a lot if you think about it. We should be grateful for their unnoticed and sometimes unrewarding efforts.

Curriculum
by John Wright

The curriculum at Mt. Everett is, for the most part, very enlightening. Each class is filled with new challenges and learning experiences which are constantly preparing us for the days which will come after high school. We may not appreciate our curriculum in school now, but later in life we will be glad we had it.

PLAY

A Great Time Working Together by Rosanne Iversen

Last year's play was the greatest that I have seen at Mt. Everett. The audience looked on with great interest during "Momotaro" and laughed heartily during "Alice". Much credit is due to our directors Jenny and Jessie Lord, along with the great group of kids we had to work with. I hope the success of this play inspired other kids to join next year's so they can learn what a great time a bunch of Mt. Everett kids can have when they work together.

I'll Remember "The Best Of Times"

by John Wright

Nov. 6 — The Mt. Everett prom last year was like stepping into a magical world — seeing all my friends dressed magnificently, dining in the beautiful dining room, and dancing in the elegantly decorated ballroom at the Hilton, and hearing the rock band playing good, loud music. I hope that this year's prom will be just as nice since this is my last year at Mt. Everett.

Not Just Another Team by Jim Perry

Oct. 22 — Here, baseball is where it's at. We show our ability in every way we can, whether we win or lose. The other team realizes that we aren't just a team, we're the "Mt. Everett Team." Next time they had better come prepared, because we'll be more than ready!

Definition Of A Team

by Laurie Wuori

I am statistician of the girls' softball team, and I feel they are a great bunch of girls. They are the best-spirited softball club in the league. They play really well and are a lot of fun. In my book these girls are the definition of a team.

This year, as in other years, the Cross Country team has done a great job. It's a winning team. I think they win because the runners are so close. I went to a meet this fall, and all the members seemed so together, like a big, happy family. They cheered each other on, even after an exhausting run. One runner told me that the best part of winning was winning together.

A Great Start

by Jane Dougherty

It is amazing how well our boys' soccer team did this year. It was the first year that Mount Everett even thought about a soccer team, not to mention competing against teams all over the country. The Mount Everett boys proved to other schools around the country that we were comparable to any other team and could give them a good game. Through the effort of the soccer team, Mount Everett expects to step into the league next year and really be a part of it all.

Our First Season by Linda Whitbeck

The Mt. Everett girls' soccer team had a good season this year. It was our first year as a team at Mt. Everett. There were some who went out for the team and quit because it was not what they had thought it would be. The girls showed that there was soccer talent at Mt. Everett. This was our first season and it turned out to be a pretty good one. We were able to stick together as a team and produce a winning season.

Working Together
by Rick Andrus

Boys' basketball in any school has always been a major winter sport, and at Mount Everett its emphasis is no less great. Many different types of boys go out for the sport, each having to work with all the other members of the team in order to have a successful year. Although this does create rivalries, it also brings the members and the school closer.

WRESTLING

Sheffield Plastics
Sheffield, MA 01257

When Your Hand Is Raised by Mark Drabik

Wrestling is truly a sport which takes a lot of motivation. To stick with a sport that tortures you requires determination like no other sport. The endless mat drills test the stamina of your body and mind. At times you feel like you can not possibly continue, but somehow you do. When you face an opponent, it is like an ancient gladitorial event. The punishment your body takes is, at times, unbearable, but when your hand is raised in triumph, you realize that it was all worth it.

A Great Group Of Girls

by Linda Whitbeck

The cheerleaders at Mt. Everett are a great group of girls. They are all full of pep and Mt. Everett spirit. When a lot of people are not at the basketball games, the girls seem to make enough noise to fill the gym. The girls always seem to get things moving when everyone seems to run out of spirit.
